Partner Liaisons: Audrey Hutchinson, Program Director, Education & Afterschool Initiatives

The Institute for Youth, Education, and Families at the National League of Cities helps municipal leaders take action on behalf of the children, youth, and families in their communities. The high school reform project helps mayors and city councilmembers work to improve the quality of schools in their communities and to work to ensure that all students – particularly students most at risk of not completing high school – have access to educational opportunities that prepare them for college, work, and citizenship.
